

OSLT

Occupation-specific Language Training

Overview

Occupation-specific Language Training (OSLT) is offered at no cost for newcomers to Ontario. Participants must be permanent residents, convention refugees or protected persons who live in Ontario and who have:

- training or experience in a specific occupation or sector but need to improve their occupation-specific communication skills.
- a valid language proficiency of at least level 5 in Canadian Language Benchmarks (CLB), or Niveaux de compétence linguistique canadiens (NCLC) for courses taught in French (for skilled trades at least level 4 in CLB/ NCLC). Some courses require higher CLB levels.

Participants will develop the language and communication skills needed to:

- understand workplace culture in their occupation and sector.
- interact effectively with their colleagues, clients and supervisors.
- give and receive information by email and telephone.
- interview and network effectively.

OSLT Occupation-specific Language Training

FLAP Formation linguistique axée sur les professions

Occupation-specific Language Training

Features innovative curriculum designed by content and language experts

- Language experts worked with occupational content experts to develop the workplace-oriented OS�T curriculum for priority occupations and industry sectors.
- The OS�T curriculum uses a common framework to address sector, occupation and socio-cultural communication skills in a consistent way.

Builds a practical understanding of workplace culture

- Participants develop a strong understanding of typical workplace communication and socio-cultural dimensions within their sector and occupation in Ontario.
- Participants learn to interact effectively and communicate clearly with clients, colleagues and supervisors within their workplace culture.

Provides supports to help newcomers connect to the local labour market

- College partnerships with local employers and industry associations help participants connect with the local labour market through job fairs and networking events.
- Colleges offer career-planning assistance, and provide participants with referrals and connections to employment-related resources at the college and in the community.

Delivered in a variety of formats at Ontario colleges

- Full-time and part-time Workplace Communications Skills courses using the OS�T Curriculum are offered by Ontario colleges.
- Courses are offered in classroom-based or online formats. Classroom-based courses may be delivered in person, virtually or a combination of both, and they are 140 or 180 hours. Online offerings are 40 hours.
- All courses are delivered by qualified college language instructors.
- Most courses are offered in English (OS�T); some are also offered in French as FLAP (Formation linguistique axée sur les professions).
- A network of college coordinators can help participants find the right OS�T course for them.

Positions newcomers for success and supports Ontario's economy

- OS�T meets the career communication needs of newcomers and positions them for employment or further education in their field.
- OS�T provides links to the local labour market to help newcomers find and maintain work commensurate with their skills and experience in their occupation.
- OS�T meets Ontario's skilled labour needs by helping newcomers integrate into the workforce.

Ontario's 24 colleges support the lifelong learning and training needs of community members at over 100 campuses across the province. Colleges are a visible first point of entry for newcomers looking for information on pathways to employment, credentials and skills assessment, language training, upgrading of skills and knowledge, and post-secondary education and training.
